Natural Egg Dyeing at Norristown Farm Park
Sunday, March 10, 2013 at 2:00pm

Norristown, PA (March 5, 2013) – Carrying on a Pennsylvania German tradition of dyeing eggs with wild berries, bark, grasses, and roots, participants will use natural materials to dye eggs rather than commercial tablets. Bring at least a dozen hard-boiled eggs. The colors that result from natural dyeing are not always predictable, but the element of surprise will add to the fun!

This program is appropriate for adults and children ages seven and up. The fee is $5 per person. Preregistration is required. Meet at the park office. For more information and to preregister, please call Norristown Farm Park at 610-270-0215.
