Montgomery County Announces 2015 Campaign Sign Recycling Program

Norristown, PA (October 26, 2015) – Campaign signs are popping up around Montgomery County reminding residents to cast their votes on November 3rd. After the excitement of Election Day, what happens to all of those signs? In Montgomery County, they can be recycled! As opposed to disposing of campaign signs in the trash, recycling puts the metal, cardboard, and plastic back into use to make other products. Starting November 4, 2015 residents should collect campaign signs and drop them off at one of the partner sites listed below. Montgomery County is again partnering with ReCommunity Recycling, Cogle's Recycling, Inc., the Montgomery County Democratic and Republican Committees, and participating municipalities to recycle political campaign signs and stakes from this year's election.

This collection program does not seek to take the campaign sign clean up responsibilities away from the campaigns. Instead, the program hopes to connect candidates and residents with drop off points so that signs can be recycled instead of thrown in the trash.

Between November 4 and 12, 2015, candidates and residents will be able to drop off campaign signs at the following locations during normal working hours:
