Health and Wellness Fair in Montgomery County Offers Free Screenings and Education

Bethlehem, Pa. – Nov. 5, 2015 – Magellan Behavioral Health of Pennsylvania, part of Magellan Health, Inc. (NASDAQ: MGLN), and Montgomery County Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Disabilities today announced that their first Integrated Health and Wellness Fair will take place at Montgomery County Intermediate Unit (MCIU), 2 West Lafayette Street, in Norristown on November 14 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The free event is open to all age groups and aims to create community awareness of local health and wellness resources for Montgomery County residents. More than 60 vendors will offer services, such as physical and behavioral health screenings; massage therapy stations; and educational resources for health, social and community support. Snacks and refreshments, giveaways, and arts and crafts also will be available.

“To provide our community with the most comprehensive care and support, the Montgomery County Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Disabilities is committed to the integration of physical health and behavioral health services,” said LeeAnn Moyer, deputy administrator behavioral health for the Montgomery County Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Disabilities. “The department strives to promote total wellness, and works to provide a system of support that meets all of the health and wellness needs of our community members. In collaboration with Magellan, we are very excited to offer this free health and wellness fair on November 14.”

“Magellan is pleased to work with the Montgomery County Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Disabilities to launch our first integrated health and wellness fair to promote healthy lifestyles within our community,” said James Leonard, general manager of Magellan Behavioral Health of Pennsylvania. “We hope this extension of our commitment to provide exceptional complete physical and behavioral care for our community members offers a beneficial and enjoyable day for adults and youth. Through this fair, we aim to create awareness about preventative measures through screenings, and offer resources for overall wellness to help individuals choose healthy living options.”

The fair is accessible to public transportation via the Norristown Transportation Center, operated by Southeastern Pennsylvania Transportation Authority (SEPTA); and parking is available at the MCIU.
