Colonial Sewing Demonstrations at the Wentz Farmstead
Sundays, July 15, August 19, & September 16 from 1:00pm-4:00pm

Worcester, PA (July 6, 2012) – Visit the historic Peter Wentz Farmstead on Sundays, July 15, August 19, and September 16 from 1:00pm to 4:00pm to experience the different types of hand sewing typical of the late 18th through early 19th centuries.

Visitors may have the opportunity to try basic hand sewing stitches, embroidery, cross stitch, and quilting techniques guided by costumed interpreters located in the historic house. Return on each of the Sundays to experience the skills of different artisans.

“Many museum collections showcase the beautiful work commonly performed by colonial people, but we hope visitors will take the opportunity to see craftspeople actually using these techniques to reproduce similar items,” noted museum educator, Kimberly Boice.
