

URBAN DESIGN SERVICES

Good urban design that functions to bring people together is what makes any space memorable, and understanding how people use public and private space is equally important. Being able to communicate how a town center plaza, a riverside park, or a revitalized streetscape might look prior to it being built is often critical to gaining support from the community. Our urban designers, landscape architects, and graphic artists are exceptionally skilled at taking ideas and concepts and transforming them into site, park, and landscape plans, 3-D models, and photo-realistic illustrations.

MCPC Services & Resources

We listen to your ideas and help to create a vision for the future that is grounded in an understanding of constructability, cost, and current regulations. We work with communities to develop images that tell the story of not only how a space can be created but also how it will be used. We collaborate with other planners at MCPC and with other county departments to create logos, info-graphics, reports, plans, and guidebooks.
