The turn-of-the 20th century was an exciting time with many changes in technology, social customs, fashion and everyday life. At Pennypacker Mills, we are constantly looking for talented people to help us share the wealth of information we have using their knowledge and interests. We are flexible with whatever time you have available, and will train you if needed. Volunteers are needed in the areas listed, or call us with your ideas:

- Guides to give tours of the Pennypacker mansion on for school tours, adult groups, and visiting public.
- Individuals with an interest in living history to participate in public programs; period clothing can be provided.
- Historic craftspeople, musicians, storyteller, and actors to volunteer for special events.
- Volunteer researchers to help catalogue and photograph the collection.
- Volunteers with sewing experience to make period clothing for the site.
- Photographers to photograph special events and programs.
- Volunteer gardeners/landscapers for regular maintenance of grounds and gardens.
- Volunteer educators to assist in the development and instruction of lessons, and demonstrations for school groups and during weekend events.
- Volunteers are needed to assist the staff in decorating the mansion for the holidays.
- General office support folding brochures, cutting craft material for events.
- Special event help for serving refreshments, food for volunteers, parking, answering the phone and information areas, Museum Shop sales.
- Mechanical skills needed to develop hands-on activities in the areas of communications (telegraph to telephone), energy (coal to electricity), transportation (train to automobiles) and water delivery systems (hand pump to windmill).
