What is Public Safety News?

Public Safety News contains important announcements from the Department of Public Safety for municipal responders, as well as training announcements, career opportunities, and other significant updates.

What are the Monthly Notices?

The Monthly Notices are formatted as a merged PDF that includes announcements for community events, training/education opportunities, fundraisers, and job offerings. Some content is provided by the Department of Public Safety, but most is received from municipalities and partner agencies. The notices are posted on the Department of Public Safety website along with PSN.

How do I receive alerts when PSN is available?

PSN and the Monthly Notices are typically made available on the department website on the last business day of each month. An email alert is sent to subscribers as soon as the newest editions are posted. The email contains a link to access the newsletter, as well as a listing of articles in the current edition. If you would like to begin receiving alerts, please contact us using the information below.

This course provides law enforcement professionals with the necessary tools for composing a proper police narrative as it pertains to the DUI arrest. We will examine the case preparation process and look at specific aspects of presenting a DUI case at trial. Successful prosecution of these cases hinges not only on proper note taking and report preparation but also on preparedness and proper presentation at trial. Topics covered include: vital elements of a professional police report, proper grammar and punctuation, and common report writing mistakes. Although this course is geared toward successful DUI prosecution, the instruction provided is applicable across a wide range of investigatory narratives. Both new and seasoned officers will benefit from the course as it provides a primer for new members of law enforcement and a refresher for seasoned officers who would benefit from additional instruction in this area. This course will be an interactive course. It is designed for students to actively participate through discussion, verbal exercises, written exercises, and the preparation of a DUI report.

Important Safety information for NARCAN® Nasal Spray

What is the most important information I should know about NARCAN® Nasal Spray?
NARCAN® Nasal Spray is used to temporarily reverse the effects of opioid medicines. The medicine in NARCAN® Nasal Spray has no effect in people who are not taking opioid medicines. Always carry NARCAN® Nasal Spray with you in case of an opioid overdose.

   - breathing problems including slow or shallow breathing in someone difficult to awaken or who looks like they are not breathing
• the black circle in the center of the colored part of the eye (pupil) is very small, sometimes called "pinpoint pupils," in someone difficult to awaken

2. Family members, caregivers, or other people who may have to use NARCAN® Nasal Spray in an opioid overdose should know where NARCAN® Nasal Spray is stored and how to give NARCAN® Nasal Spray before an opioid overdose happens.

3. Get emergency medical help right away after giving the first dose of NARCAN® Nasal Spray. Rescue breathing or CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) may be given while waiting for emergency medical help.

Elemental Mercury Collection Program

Introduction
The Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection’s (DEP) mercury collection program accepts elemental mercury and mercury containing devices, such as barometers and switches, from private citizens, schools, and not-for-profit organizations. Elemental mercury is the pure liquid (silver) form of mercury, not mercury compounds or solutions such as mercuric chloride or methyl chloride.

Businesses or for-profit organizations looking for information on mercury recycling and disposal should contact the appropriate Regional Waste Management Program at a DEP Regional Office for follow-up.

DEP staff will not collect mercury thermostats. Residents who want to properly dispose of mercury thermostats should visit the Thermostat Recycling Corporation’s website at www.thermostat-recycle.org to search for a nearby collection location.

Safe Packaging Tips
DEP staff will only accept mercury for collection if it’s in a sound, sealed, and safe condition and if the quantity to be collected doesn’t require special transportation arrangements. To safely package mercury, follow these tips:

- Elemental mercury should be in a container designed for liquids such as a plastic bottle, reusable plastic food container, or glass jar with a tight-fitting lid.
- Unsound, unsealed, or broken mercury containing devices should be taped shut.
- Place the sealed container(s) of elemental mercury and/or mercury-containing devices into another sealable container such as an empty coffee can, reusable plastic food container, or jar with a tight-fitting lid.
- Refrain from transferring or pouring elemental mercury directly from one container into another container.
- Store the container in a cool, secure place away from occupied areas of your residence or building.
- Take digital photos of mercury containers to share with collection program responders.

Contact and Schedule
First, contact a local household hazardous waste collection program, if available in your home county. If there is no local program or the program does not collect mercury, contact your DEP Regional Office to arrange an appointment for pick-up. Do not transport mercury to a DEP office location.

Mercury Spills
Mercury is a heavy metal with unique chemical and physical properties that can exist as a liquid, vapor, or within a compound (e.g. methyl mercury). Exposure to mercury can negatively affect breathing and cause corrosive skin burns, birth defects, and central nervous system damage.

Mercury spills rarely present an imminent hazard unless the spill occurs in an area with extremely poor ventilation. The main exposure route of mercury is through vapor inhalation. If metallic mercury is not cleaned up adequately, the tiny droplets remaining in surface cracks and crevices may yield toxic vapors for years.

Plan ahead if you have mercury containing devices on your property by purchasing a mercury spill kit from a laboratory equipment supplier. Trusted links with specific guidance on small spill cleanup and a list of spill kit suppliers are provided below.

Typically, you can clean up a mercury spill of less than one gram, or about the amount contained in a single thermometer, on your own if you follow proper safety guidelines. Mercury spills more than one gram should be cleaned up by a trained professional. Contact your local county emergency management agency and the 24-hour DEP emergency response hotline at: 1-800-541-2050 for further guidance, if a spill larger than one gram occurs or if in doubt. If someone has inhaled mercury vapors, call a Poison Control Center or 911 immediately.
