Bono offers inside look into Sheriff's Office with quarterly newsletter

Norristown, Pa., (January 28, 2015) –Montgomery County Sheriff Russell Bono is introducing a new way for county residents to stay up-to-date on the latest “insider” news from the Sheriff's Office. Bono made the announcement about the new quarterly Sheriff's Roundup newsletter, in his office on Wednesday, January 28, 2015.

“Not all of our news makes it into the newspaper or onto the web”, said Bono. “So, we’ve decided to create a quarterly newsletter that will give citizens a broader view of what we do, such as our extensive training, collaborations with other agencies and community involvement.”

The MCSO is one of the largest law enforcement offices in the county. In addition to securing the courthouse and county trails, the MCSO also:

- pursues and arrests hundreds of defendants with criminal, domestic relations and DUI warrants each year.
- assists other law enforcement agencies in investigations, raids, crowd control and police protection.
- securely detains and transports thousands of defendants and prisoners each year.
- retains one of the most active bomb squads in the country, which has been recognized for its outstanding reporting procedures.
- builds strong relationships with community organizations through fundraising, food and toy donations, and staff participation.

The first newsletter highlights some of the major accomplishments and activities for the year 2014. Sheriff's Roundup is available at sheriff.montcopa.org and will also be published on the office's social media pages on Facebook at www.facebook.com/montcosheriff and Twitter @MontCoPASheriff. Limited printed quantities will also be available in the Sheriff's Office.
